Winter Presentation

Prohibition in the Hudson Valley: Along the Bootleg Trail

Presenter: Eleanor Rubin Charwat

The Hudson Valley played a prominent role in bootlegging activity during Prohibition. Local producers, distributors, and sellers of illegal liquor were overshadowed and terrorized by NYC gangsters like Dutch Schultz, Salvatore Maranzano, and Legs Diamond, who came to the Hudson Valley to make money and escape federal surveillance.

Author and community activist Ellie Rubin Charwat, retired head of the School of Adult Education at Marist College, has been a newspaper reporter and a Town of Poughkeepsie Councilman. Intrigued by information on Prohibition that she found in her father's scrapbook, she did research, created a talk, and wrote a book about it.
